JIMS CORNER

Hi Ho Silver, the Lone Ranger rides again. We all know the Lone Ranger used Silver Bullets, but did he really make them over a campfire as we were led to believe? Picture the Lone Ranger and his faithful Indian friend Tonto, sitting by the campfire supposedly casting the bullets. A campfire burns at a temperature of about 900 degrees F, Silver melts (with a catalyst such as Borax) at 1,763.2 degrees F. So, unless Tonto was full of hot air, no way Kemosabe!!!!!!
